

Some One For Every One

Your nose is pretty much sideways
You got the skin of a pineapple
You sound kind of strange
In the morning and in the night

You don't understand
Who is your man
They come and go
The blades of fan

But I can say
Tomorrow and today
There is some one for every one
Some one for every one

You stole my money
And you lied too
I thought that we were done
I can't live without you

A lie is not the same
As I'm sorry
A glance and a smile
Sometimes take a while

But I can say
There's no other way
And there is some one for every one
Some one for every one

You can drink coffee
On the same banquette
Without being friends
You don't need to make amends

You don't have to be
Nice or patiently
You must have grown up in a zoo
But I still love you

You weigh 300 pounds
And so do you
Are you a male or a female
It doesn't mater who is who

You could say in many ways
That there is some one for every one

Yet there I am and here you are Proving once again
That there is some one for every one
